Women's Institute Begins Fall Activities

LAC LA BICHE—The Women's Institute commenced another season of activities with the September meeting held at the home of Mrs. F. McMillan. Mrs. L. Badry acted as co-hostess. Eleven members and three visitors were present.

There was considerable discussion of the swimming lessons offered during the summer and of what could be done in this regard in the future. A motion of thanks to Constable Smith for his efforts was made and unanimously carried.

The Librarian reported a busy month with 75 renewals and new memberships. The town council will again be asked for improved accommodations.

The secretary gave the report of the delegates to the constituency conference at Newbrook, Mrs. F. Creighton. She reported a most profitable and enjoyable day.

It was decided to hold the annual canvass for the CNIB Oct. 5.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. M. Hamar and will feature a five-cent bingo for members and friends.

The event of the evening was a talk by Mr. P. T. Brinsmead on the culture of tulips, both indoor and outdoor. He gave an interesting history of the tulip bulb, stating that in 1634 in Holland one bulb sold for 13,000 florins or $10,000. An informative discussion period followed with Mr. Brinsmead answering questions on gardening. A motion of thanks to Mr. Brinsmead was made by Mrs. J. Chester Sr.

Building Permits Totalling $9,300 Approved At September Meeting

LAC LA BICHE — Council met on Sept. 10 for the regular meeting, but adjourned until Sept. 17 when more members could be present. On Sept. 17, Councillors Lionel Vincent, Eli Tkachuk, James Hamar, F. W. McMillan and Harry Lobay were present as well as Mayor Steve Hamar and Secretary F. D. Creighton.

One ratepayer was present to advise the council that there was need for improved drainage facilities in Block 17. It was explained that in the spring of the year run-off water overflowed on certain lots causing damage to basements. It was pointed out that the water came from considerable distance and might have been diverted into ditches where it would not cause damage to property owners. Council assured the owner that the matter would be looked into.

A property owner made a complaint that a sewer line had been plugging and giving trouble. The secretary was asked to find out who was responsible, if it were found that the line had been improperly installed, the owner, the town, the consulting engineer or the contractor. Action is to be taken to put the line in order.

A building permit for a dwelling to cost $7,000.00 was passed, as well as a permit for a private garage to cost $800.00 and a warehouse addition to cost $1,500.00.

A report from the inspector from the Division of Sanitary Engineering, Provincial Health Department, was read.

A report from the cemetery caretaker was read. A letter was read from the Union of Alberta Municipalities, in which details were given converning the forthcoming convention in Calgary, Oct. 24 and 25.

Plans for the proposed sewer and water extensions were looked into and discussed. Approval to a plan presented by the town's consulting engineers, was withheld for the time being, as it was thought that the estimated cost of a sewer lift station to be located in the west end of town, was very high. A study is to be made into the possibility of a sewer lagoon for the west section of town.

A police report for the month of August was read.

Accounts totalling $6,410.81 were passed for payment.

Students' Union Holds Party, Dance

LAC LA BICHE—The Students' Union held a 'Get Acquaited" party Sept. 13, for the Grade 10 students.

It was required that the Grade 10's all wear dunce caps until 11 p.m. and a box was filled with suggestions for penalties for those who failed to carry out the dunce cap ruling.

Only a few penalties were handed out during the evening. There was dancing from 11 until 12, after which lunch was served. "Home Sweet Home" ended the evening's entertainment.

Why Are "Mounties" Not "Mounted

By MRS. G. R. ENGLISH

On the opening day of fairs, rodeos or stampedes, parades are the big attraction of entertainment, and our R.C.M.P. are often leading on foot. It distracts from the dignity of the great force by the members in the advance of the parade to be on foot.

To visitors from other parts of the world it must be a shock and disappointment to see the red-coated mounties not well-mounted. We are a rich country. We are not particularly wealthy in colorful history or traditions, but what we have of both, is just cause for pride.

The R.C.M.P. are colorful history and tradition of first importance to us. We are a wealthy nation, not overspending on maintenance of our traditions, therefore it seems reasonable to make provision for horses to carry the mounted police in prairie parades. It would be possible, at no great expense, to maintain a few horses in Alberta and Saskatchewan for the purpose of parades. A mobil unit for two could cover most or all of the summer events. They keep horses at Regina for the musical ride. They travel all over the world with the unit; and yet there are many Canadians who have never had the pleasure of seeing a R.C.M.P. on a horse. There is no single attraction which would appeal to natives and tourists alike as much as the appearance of well-mounted red-coats.

It may be called glamour; we are not a particularly glamorous people, and a touch of it here and there is a fine thing.

Tommy Primrose states in "Canadian Cattlemen" "at a recently held Calgary exhibition and stampede, it was a pleasure and a privilege, and a bit of egoistic satisfaction to be asked for the use of one of my saddle horses in the stampede parade. The exhibition needed her for an R.C.M.P. to ride, and I felt extremely proud of her as she helped to lead the greatest of parades. The "Banner" has been a mount for members of the force in other parades, and she looks well doing the job. I have a feeling she is rather proud of herself and acts accordingly."

The writer had the pleasure of riding in a much smaller parade on an equally proud horse, behind the band this past summer. The officials in charge were having the riders lead, but the members of the band felt they would not like to walk behind the horses, which all goes to show the pride and satisfaction that being mounted, whether in the lead or at the end, you have that feeling of pride with your horse. The life and vitality seem to flow upwards to you, and gives you a wonderful feeling.

MR. MAURICE HOLDSWORTH is shown here with his brother Ernest of Vermilion and his sister, Mrs. Ludwick from Cochrane, Ont., on the grounds of the Government House hospital. Mr. Holdsworth, born in Barrie, Ont., and a veteran of the first war in which he served for three years, was overjoyed by the visit of his sister, whom he had not seen for 46 years, and his brother, after an absence of 10 years.

THE Homemaker

By JOAN MORGAN

SEWING POINTERS

With the start of a new school term, many mothers will be called upon to make additions to the family wardrobes. It is a wise homemaker who decides to learn how to sew so she can save money and obtain better fit.

To start out, the first step is to decide what items are needed. This decision should be based on the present wardrobe. Consider where the children spend most of their time—at school and at play. So clothes for these occasions have to be durable, easy to care for, and will not soil readily. Styles that are simple yet smart, and that suit the figure type of the wearer are best to chose.

Accurate pattern sizes can now be purchased. Do not buy the size that you usually take in ready-to-wear garments. Check your family's measurements—bust (fullest part), waist, hip (fullest part), and back waist length. From these measurements and the charts in the front of all pattern books, you can determine what figure type each person has—misses', junior misses', teens, sub-teens, or women's. Buy dress and blouse patterns to fit the bust measurement; buy skirts and slacks to fit the hip measurement. When you use these rules, pattern alterations are easy.

Materials should be of a close even weave to withstand rough wear and cleaning methods. Twill weaves generally are firmly woven. These come in cotton denims, man-made blended fabrics, and in wools. Many cottons and synthetics look like wools these days. Rough textured fabrics such as tweeds and boucles do not show soil or creasing. Fabrics are often treated to repel creases, shrinking and water spotting. These are real money savers for they cut down on care required for articles made of such fabrics. Consult the table of suggested fabrics on the back of your pattern envelope.

Test your material for shrinkage before you do any cutting. Also straighten the ends for accurate hanging of the garment. In pinning your pattern onto the fabric, determine whether your fabric has a one-way design or nap. Be sure to place the grain line that is clearly marked on all paper pattern pieces, parallel to the selvage. Pattern lay-outs are described in each pattern.

The next step is to pin the paper pattern pieces together and try it on to see if it is going to need alterations. If you have an odd figure, perhaps you would find a sewing book helpful in making alterations. Four of the largest pattern companies publish a book designed to help all sewers in nearly every detail of sewing. These books are available at any pattern counter at a nominal charge. I recommend them.

In assembling your garment, follow your instruction sheet included with your pattern for details. I find it easiest to complete the blouse neck first, then finish and put in the sleeves, do the skirt, and join the top and bottom together.

Finishing and then pressing each dart, seam, and detail as you complete it helps to give an expert's touch to your garment. I always set up my ironing board as soon as I start to sew, in order to get that professional look to my clothes.

Part of my work in Extension Service is to conduct sewing clinics for groups of 8 or more women in rural areas. A suitable meeting place has to be located, the women bring their own machines and materials. Usually the clinics last from 3 to 5 days, but could be held once a week if suitable. Contact me if you are interested in having a sewing clinic at 10302 - 107 Street, Edmonton, Alberta.

Physicians and Dentists Oppose Fluoridation of Public Water Supplies

A short time ago a few physicians and dentists formed an organiation called "The Medical-Dental Ad Hoc Committee." The purpose of this organization was to independently study the highly controversial subject of fluoridation. The number of members now exceeds 1,000, and is growing every day.

Included in this group are: a Nobel Prize winner; a former Medical Association President; a chief of staff of one of the Metropolitan New York hospitals; several past presidents of local Medical Societies; members of local Health Boards; one of the greatest living surgeons; and a dean emeritus of a leading medical school.

Representatives of this organization recently presented evidence to the New York Mayor and Board of Estimate which held the most extensive hearings of both sides of fluoridation at New York City Hall, on March 6, 1957, where fluoridation was rejected.

Here is a resume of their statement:

We, the undersigned are opposed to the fluoridation of public water supplies. As members of the medical, dental, and related public health professions, we are as concerned as anyone over the prevalence of tooth decay, and as anxious that it be prevented; but each of us, for some or all of the reasons set forth here and discussed more fully in the appended memorandum, believes that fluoridation of public water supplies is not a proper means of attempting such prevention.

Positive proofs of the safety of fluoridation are required. None has been offered.

The so-called therapeutic concentration of fluoride, arbitrarily established at 1 ppm. in drinking water, is in the toxic range.

Dental fluorosis, the first obvious symptom of chronic fluoride toxicity in children, is an inevitable result of fluoridation. The evidence reveals that large numbers of the population may be afflicted, and with varying degrees of damage.

The determination of whether damage resulting from dental fluorosis is "objectionable" is a matter for the person whose teeth are affected, and not for the arbitrary assertion of public officials.

The conceivable role of fluoride as an insidious factor in chronic diseases has been evaded by the proponents. A substantial amount of evidence indicates such a possibility. Properly planned long term studies are required to determine the possible comprehensive association of fluoride with chronic disease.

Fluoridation imposes an extraordinary risk on certain individuals who by reasons of occupation, environmental circumstances, state of health, dietary habits, etc., are already exposed to a relatively high intake of fluoride.

Fluoridation is compulsory mass medication without precedent. Mass therapy cannot ignore the possibility of "mass" side reactions.

The function of a public water supply is to provide pure, safe water for everybody, not to serve as a vehiclee for drugs. It should be mentioned that there is no comparison between chlorination and fluoridation. Chlorination serves primarily to destroy harmful organisms which may be present in the water. The action of chlorine is such that its toxic effects are virtually exhausted and neutralized as a result of reactions with substances in the water. The reaction is rapid and approaches completion soon after the chlorine is added to the water. Fluoride is toxic when added to the water, and is intended to remain in undiminished potency when it reaches the consumer. Its action is intended for, and confined to the physiological system of the consumer. The introduction of fluoridation imposes an extraordinary factor of life-long risk associated with the water supply which the consumer was not subjected to previously. There is a vast difference between treating the water and treating the consumer.

The role and efficiency of fluoride in dental reduction is a matter of active controversy; whatever the outcome, there are less hazardous and more efficient ways of obtaining such benefits, as fluoride may offer than by putting it into the public water supply.

Promoters of fluoridation attempt to silence opposition by labeling all opposed as crackpots, or some similar term. This has been effective in silencing many physicians and dentists from speaking out against the addition of a chemical poison to our drinking water. We all owe a debt of gratitude to these men whose courage and concern for our welfare has set an example for all of us who value our health and freedom.

This is the case of a homeowner who wanted a particular household appliance. Not having the ready cash, he opened a Savings Account at Imperial Bank of Canada, and saved for it. Because he was not involved with carrying charges, he was able to buy it at the regular retail price, and so save money on the purchase. He also received interest, from Imperial, while he was saving. HOLLOW VICTORY

Two officers brought a man into Los Angeles municipal court on a charge of bookmaking. "He has an artificial leg," the arresting officer told the judge, "and it's a hollow one. Inside it we found four betting slips and $3,233 in cash."

But the victory proved to be as hollow as the leg. "Looking into a man's wooden leg to see if he has been taking bets on the horses constitutes unreasonable search," said the judge. "Charge dismissed."

Traditionally, in Canada, it is the railways that open up new territory, latest push in this direction is the line being built into the Chibougamay country of northern Quebec.

United Church Basement Poured

MANNVILLE — Approximately 30 church members turned out to assist in pouring cement, on Monday of this week, for the new United Church basement. R. Bodard is in charge of building operations, and cast a wary eye weatherwise, as clouds gathered and slight shower activity prevailed, but after lunch it cleared up and the "Bee" was well underway again.

Mrs. A. Baker and Mrs. R. Ewing of the United Church W.A. served lunch to the helpers, which was provided by members of that group.

One of the crew, J. Park, narrowly escaped serious injury when he slipped off a ramp and fell about eight feet, hurting only his finger, and being shaken up a bit.

MR. AND MRS. PAUL PRONIUK who celebrated their 70th birthdays on the same day are shown here with their birthday cake, decorated with 70 candles.

Couple Honored On 70th Birthdays

WILLINGDON— Mr. and Mrs. Paul Proniuk were honored when more than 50 guests gathered at their family home to congratulate them on their 70th birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Proniuk, born in Western Ukraine, came to Canada in 1908 with many others of their countrymen, seeking hapiness and good fortunes in a land of plenty. Though not acquainted at the time of their arrival they later met and were married in Lethbridge in 1911, while Mr. Proniuk was employed in a coal mine.

In 1912, Mr. and Mrs. Proniuk moved to a homestead in the Peno district, north of Lamont, where they farmed until 1945, when they moved to a farm south east of Willingdon where they now reside.

In the earlier years Mr. Proniuk continued to work in the coal mines during the off-farming seasons. Later he became a Wheat Pool member, took part in school management and church affairs. Mr. and Mrs. Proniuk have four children, Peter, William, Mary and Anna.

Present at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Proniuk, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rudko, Fort Saskatchewan, Mr. and Mrs. Kabasiuk of Peno (Mr. and Mrs. William Proniuk of Vancouver were delayed, arriving the next day) Mr. and Mrs. Nick Babiuk, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Makoretsky, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perletsky (Mr. Perletsky acted as master of ceremonies), Mr. Sidor and Mrs. Sidor. Mrs. Sidor assisted Mrs. Paul Proniuk with the routine social functions. Mr. Sidor was toastmaster, and he with Mr. Perletsky, Mr. Babiuk and Mrs. Makoretsky spoke of Mr. Proniuk's accomplishments in farming, and stated he was an upright citizen and a good neighbor.

The party participants spent the greater part of the afternoon outdoors, as the day was truly an Alberta summer sunny day.

Mrs. Proniuk received a beautiful silver set of cutlery and Mr. Proniuk received a gift of a rocking chair from the well wishers.

Mr. Proniuk in thanking those responsible for the enjoyable party and for the gifts received spoke of the freedom enjoyed in Canada where everyone is given a chance to prove his worth.

"For he's a Jolly Good Fellow" sung in English and Ukrainian climaxed an enjoyable get-together.

The catches made at Flin Flon's Trout Festival held annually are termed as an angler's dream.

Tame Magpie Holds Its Own

MANNVILLE—A lesson on bravery or call it sheer nerve if you will, may be learned from a tame magpie owned by Jackie Hughes on first street west. He is safe from neighboring cats and dogs, because he scolds them unmercifully when they go near him, and they are dumfounded at his attack. In order that he would not fly away, his wings were clipped, so he has little chance of escape should a large animal pounce on him, however, that day has yet to come.

People have watched while cats have gone so far as to hold him down, only to release him, while he flew to the safety of a short perch and scolded them. It was truly interesting to perceive the look of consternation on the cat's face. Neighbors have named this bird "Maggie" to which it answers, as he visits around the block, where these scenes have taken place. His familiar scolding precedes his visit as he hops along the road scorning all traffic.

Happy Centre WI Plans Hobby Fair

MANNVILLE — Mrs. J. Coxford was hostess and Mrs. C. Mercer and Miss A. Cain co-hostesses at a recent meeting of the Happy Centre W.I. A kitchen hint by each member acknowledged her presence and useful information was gleaned thereby.

During the business session, money was voted for a W.I. scholarship, while a subscription was given for the "National Geographic Magazine" by the members.

The now annual Hobby Fair took up most of the discussion for remainder of the meeting. This popular event will be held in the School Auditorium, Nov. 16. Conveners were appointed and hope was expressed that all will get busy on hobbies.

"Pig in the poke" was won by Mrs. W. Osborn.

DISTRICT AGRICULTURIST NOTES

By J. S. LORE

A recent survey completed by the Marketing Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa indicates that Canadian consumers prefer lean bacon rather than fat bacon. I thought the results of the survey would be interesting to the swine producers in this area and may be an incentive to produce more grade "A" hogs. In retail stores in Montreal, Edmonton and Toronto they have shown they will pay a premium for it for several cents a lb. if they can not be sure of getting a consistent quality.

The survey was undertaken as the result of complaints from individuals and suported by the Canadian Association of Consumers, that Canadian side bacon was fatter than consumers desired.

First test of consumer preferences was made when slices of side bacon of varying degrees of lean to fat were placed before visitors to a Department of Agriculture exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto and the Salon de l'Agriculture, Montreal. Each visitor was inivted to rate the samples as "good", "fair", or "poor" and as "acceptable" or "not acceptable".

About 8,000 opinions were obtained from these tests. The percentage of fat and lean in the sample slices was measured and from the preferences expressed it was concluded that bacon with less than 20 per cent of lean is generally not acceptable. About 30 per cent of lean is required for bacon to be classer as "good" by one-third of the consumers or "acceptable" by more than two-thirds. Bacon in which the lean apeared in strips throughout the slice also was preferred to concentration of the lean in one portion of the slice.

From these preferences it was concluded that a standard top quality of sliced side bacon should have a minimum of 30 per cent lean area and be drawn from the central portion of a slab of bacon. The question remained—would consumers buy a grade of bacon consistently at a sufficient price premium to justify its introduction of the retail market?

To obtain this information standard grade A lean bacon was selected and placed on sale in three supermarkets in widely separated sections of Montreal, Edmonton, and Toronto. The bacon was wrapped in ½ pound packages identified only as grade A Lean and offered for sale in display space alongside other side bacon at a premium of six cents a pound over top quality commercial brands.

From these tests the Marketing Service concludes that it is possible to establish and maintain a fixed standard of leanness in side bacon; that such a standard can be mechanically and economically produced in present day processing operations; that regular trade personnel can make the selection under occasional supervision and checking, and that consumer acceptance indicates all the Grade A Lean now available could be sold at some price premium over regular top brands.

Liquor Outlets Have Sparked Improvement

WINNIPEG — Manitoba's new liquor outlets have sparked a definite improvement in restaurant food and service instead of the boozing spree predicted by some, Barnard Halstead, liquor commission chairman, said today.

He said "Some people expected a revolution, but instead we've had a quiet evolution."

Manitoba's new outlets were first licensed six months ago.

Mr. Halstead said there was no evidence that the new outlets have resulted in increased drinking.

The standard of food to be offered has been a basic consideration in licensing the new outlets and the commission has been insisting on "the establishment and maintenance of the highest possible standard of food operation," he said.

Mr. Halstead estimated that more than $1,000,000 had been spent on improvement of eating establishments.

The first of the new license were issued March 1 and since then, 66 establishments have been licensed —all but 16 of them in greater Winnipeg.

Total sales by the liquor commission now are running about 10 per cent ahead of last year.
